#	WORD	DEFINITION
1	awakening	v. 1. to wake from sleep; 2. to make sharply aware; n. the act of waking "Each morning brought a new awakening shoot, pale green and trembling, pushing through the cold Yorkshire soil."
1	disagreeable	adj. not pleasant or enjoyable; causing discomfort. "Mary had always been disagreeable and sour, yet the garden coaxed something gentler slowly out of her."
1	flourishing	v. grow vigorously; to reach a desired level of accomplishment "By midsummer the once-dead garden was fully flourishing, rioting with colour from wall to mossy wall."
1	instinctively	adv. acting on instinct without thinking about it. "Mary instinctively knelt beside the small green spike, knowing without being told that something precious grew there."
1	melancholy	n. a deep feeling of sadness or sorrow. "Archibald Craven remained melancholy and distant, unable to enter any room that reminded him of his lost wife."
1	neglected	adj. not cared for or given attention. "The neglected garden had been locked and forgotten for ten years, its door hidden beneath a curtain of ivy."
1	overgrown	adj. covered with plants or grass that have grown too tall. "The overgrown roses still clung to the old stone walls, alive beneath their tangle of grey and withered stems."
1	rejuvenate	v. to make someone or something feel young again. "The open air and digging seemed to rejuvenate Colin in ways that no doctor's remedy had ever managed."
1	restorative	adj. having the ability to restore health or strength. "The Yorkshire air proved deeply restorative, bringing colour to Colin's pale cheeks within a fortnight of going out."
1	reverently	adv. in a way that shows deep respect. "The children spoke reverently of the garden's magic, as though the very soil were something sacred and alive."
1	solitary	adj. being alone or without companions. "Mary had lived a solitary existence in India, surrounded by servants yet beloved by absolutely no one at all."
1	stubbornly	adv. in a way that shows determination to not change one's mind. "Colin stubbornly refused to leave his room until Mary described the garden in such vivid detail he wept."
1	tentatively	adv. in a way that is not definite or certain. "Mary tentatively pushed the door open, half expecting the garden to vanish like something from a dream."
1	transform	v. to change completely in form or appearance. "Dickon had the rare gift to transform any wild or frightened creature into a willing and trusting companion."
1	vigorously	adv. in a strong and active way. "Colin dug vigorously at the earth, astonished by the strength that had quietly grown inside his own thin arms."
