

Through the Looking-Glass

by Lewis Carroll

Lewis Carroll's sequel to Wonderland takes Alice into a mirror-world structured like a chess game, filled with memorable characters including Tweedledee, Tweedledum, and the Red Queen.

Rank #13

Power Words

#	WORD	DEFINITION
1	argumentative	adj. given to arguing "Tweedledee grew argumentative the moment his brother spoke, contradicting every word simply out of stubborn habit."
1	bewildering	v. to confuse or puzzle "The chess-board landscape was utterly bewildering, with brooks and hedges dividing it into impractical little squares."
1	contemptuously	adj. feeling or showing open dislike for someone or something "Humpty Dumpty smiled contemptuously and declared that he could make any word mean exactly what he chose."
1	contrary	adj. opposite in nature or character. "Everything in the looking-glass world was contrary to sense, with memory working backwards and jam never today."
1	imperiously	adv. in a way that shows authority or power. "The Red Queen imperiously commanded Alice to run faster, insisting they were barely staying in the same place."
1	indignantly	adv. in an angry and scornful manner "Alice replied indignantly that a name ought to mean something, which Humpty Dumpty dismissed with great scorn."
1	methodical	adj. done in an orderly and careful way. "The White Knight was methodical in attaching things to his horse, however unlikely their practical purpose appeared."
1	nonsensical	adj. having no meaning or making no sense. "The Jabberwocky poem struck Alice as entirely nonsensical, though she felt it was filling her head with ideas."
1	obstinate	adj. stubbornly refusing to change one's opinion or chosen course. "The Red Queen was obstinate on the subject of manners, correcting Alice's conduct between every other sentence."
1	oscillate	v. 1 be undecided about something; 2 move or swing from side to side regularly "The looking-glass landscape seemed to oscillate between dream and logic, never settling into either for very long."
1	paradoxical	adj. seemingly contradictory but nonetheless possibly true "It was paradoxical that running as fast as possible kept Alice rooted to exactly the same square."
1	perplex	v. be a mystery or bewildering to "The White Queen's habit of screaming before she pricked her finger never failed to perplex Alice entirely."
1	receding	adj. becoming less or moving back. "The destination kept receding as Alice walked toward it, always visible yet never any closer than before."
1	reversal	n a reversing or being reversed; esp; a change to the opposite as in one's fortune Law annulment; change; or revocation; as of a lower court's decision "Every rule Alice knew had undergone complete reversal, making the looking-glass world impossible to navigate by logic."
1	triumphantly	adv. joyful over a victory or success "Alice rose triumphantly from her chair and seized the tablecloth, sending every queen tumbling to the floor."